PLANNED GIVING FOR THE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

DOCUMENTING YOUR BEQUEST

Each year, many alumni and friends reveal that they have included the University of Iowa in their estate plans. Some provide further details about their intentions, in effect “documenting” their generous future gifts to the University of Iowa. Here are five good reasons why bequest donors should consider this step.

1. Peace of Mind
   Providing us with information about your bequest will help ensure your wishes are met. With respect to designating specific purposes or programs, we can review the language to make sure it can carry out your intentions and, in the case of an endowed fund, that the necessary endowment language is included.

2. Designating a Purpose
   If you have not yet designated a purpose, you can sign a Statement of Gift Intent or Statement of Future Gift specifying a purpose. A signed Statement of Gift Intent or Statement of Future Gift will complete our records and be kept safely in our files.

3. Inspiring Others
   Estate gifts are a crucial source of support for the UI. If you document your bequest, the estimated value can also count toward current fundraising totals, inspiring other alumni and friends to follow in your footsteps.

4. No Obligations
   Please understand that by documenting your bequest, you are in no way making your bequest binding or irrevocable. You still have the liberty to revise your estate plans if your circumstances or priorities change, although we do ask that you notify us as a courtesy if that happens.
